

125 . The World Health Organization

- is biased against alternative medicine
- has an intolerant attitude towards alternative medicine
- is going to train more alternative therapists
- approves of valid alternative medicine practices

Passage 2

The social determinants of health are the economic and social conditions – and their distribution among the population – that influence individual and group differences in health status. They are risk factors found in one's living and working conditions (such as the distribution of income, wealth, influence, and power), rather than individual factors (such as behavioral risk factors or genetics) that influence the risk for a disease, or vulnerability to disease or injury. According to some viewpoints, these distributions of social determinants are shaped by public policies that reflect the influence of prevailing political ideologies of those governing a jurisdiction. The World Health Organization says that "This unequal distribution of health damaging experiences is not in any sense a 'natural' phenomenon but is the result of a toxic combination of poor social policies, unfair economic arrangements [where the already well-off and healthy become even richer and the poor who are already more likely to be ill become even poorer], and bad politics."

126 . It is understood that social conditions affect.....

- health status
- people distribution
- economic status
- individual factors

127 . It is believed that are more influential than individual factors in increasing one's susceptibility to diseases.

- hereditary factors
- disparities in wealth distribution
- genetic abnormalities
- equitable sharing of wealth

128 . Some scholars hold that one can judge the from the distribution of income, wealth and health among the members of a society.

- public police of the society
- prevailing individual factors
- governing body of the society
- behavioral risk factors

129 . The World Health Organization warns against the

- toxicity threatening the poor
- individual experiences of the poor
- health status of the poor
- rich becoming more well-to-do

130 . WHO considersas a threat to the health of the society.

- poisonous substances
- the sense of natural phenomena
- poor economic arrangements
- frictional medicine